In addition to the foregoing tabular statements required by law, we make the following statements and suggestions, to which we invite attention:

The daily conveyance of the few scholars in the North River district, to and from the East Epping school, begun in 1890 and continued through the last school year, has resulted in improving the school and saving about one half the expense of maintaining another separate school. It is now proposed to make a greater improvement and saving, by moving the North River school house to a new lot, centrally located for the united schools. Twelve legal voters who reside in the vicinity of those schools and are directly interested therein, having made written application to the School Board to insert in the warrant for the annual meeting an article to see if the district will vote to move the schoolhouse aforesaid, that subject will be before the meeting for action thereon. An additional incentive to affirmative action upon the proposition is the unfitness of the East Epping school house for school purposes.

In the other rural districts, it has appeared that neither the success of the schools nor the convenience of the scholars could be improved by uniting the schools, and the four schools therein, having a membership of 18, 25, 31, and 32, respectively, have been maintained separately, as heretofore.

A good beginning has been made toward establishing a school of intermediate grade between the primary school and the grammar school, the greatest obstacle to which lies in the few cases of small children required to cross the river to the school house on the other side. Exceptions were made in cases of greatest seeming hardship, and a few children, properly belonging in th e primary school south of the river, were permitted to attend the intermediate school north of the river. If the time comes when the district will sell both of its small school houses in the village and build one sufficiently commodious to accommodate all the village schools, then the smaller children can be accompanied by their older brothers and sisters to and from the school house, separateing only as they pass from the vestibule to their respective school rooms.

For the High school and Grammar school, the large school room on the first floor of the building was found sufficient in seating capacity during the year, and the desks in the school room on the second floor were temporarily set aside and the room used for gymnastics. A saving of fuel and some other advantages were secured by the arrangement, but indications of an increase in membership make it seem probable that there will be occasion for replacing the desks and sending the Grammar school back to its former room, during the coming year.

For the first time in the history of our school management, a truant officer was appointed by the School Board near the beginning of the school year, and his efficient discharge of his duties was followed by satisfactory results. Truancy, especially in the village, was a growing evil, and it has been checked and almost entirely suppressed.

In the purchase of text books and other school supplies during the year, there has been expended the sum of $248.60, and the amount of such supplies remaining on hand is as follows: text books, $112.60; writing books, $20.44; pencils, chalk crayons, erasers, etc., $24.56, total $157.60.

A full appreciation of the intelligent and liberal support which the town has given to its schools, leads to the confident expectation that all needed support will be continued. The public schools must be sustained. The state commands it, but our people wait for no legal mandate. They respond to every reasonable call for aid to judicious propositions for improving the schools.

Whatever advantage the specialist finds in the select school, the public school remains preeminent as the people's school. From it all artificial distinctions are banished, in it all stand for what they are, no accident of wealth gives preeminence. If such distinction is insisted upon, by all means assign to their proper place those poor children who are so unfortunate as to have wealthy, over-indulgent parents, who do not train them in habits of industry in commendable pursuits. Thanks to the wise founders of the public school. It tends to adjust all relations, it is society in miniature, and, if properly conducted, is an indispensable agency in fitting the children for taking their places in society at large.
